The Ranch at Fossil Creek, Fossil Creek Creamery & Fossil Creek Llama Ranch - Strawberry, Arizona
FossilCreekCreamery.com
The ranch is located in the beautiful Mogollon Rim mountain setting of Strawberry, Arizona, and is a working ranch where llamas and dairy goats are hand-raised. Because of the 6000 ft. elevation, the goats and llamas breathe some of the healthiest clean air in the US. Also, delicious and healthy artisan goat’s milk cheeses, fudge and other products are created in the onsite Fossil Creek Creamery.
Owners, John and Joyce Bittner have lived in Arizona for over 40 years. In 1996 they built the Ranch at Fossil Creek. Their Arizona certified Fossil Creek Creamery was built in 2004.

The ranch is a farmstead operation and goats are hand-raised using safe, natural practices.

Several types of tours at the ranch are offered including cheese and fudge sampling and llama hikes. Please go to the website for pricing and more details and online reservations:

There are many experiences people enjoy at the ranch!

- Bottle feeding baby goats in the Spring
- Seeing where the milk comes from and experiencing how to milk our nanny goats
- Learning how cheese is made and tasting the clean, natural flavors of fresh cheese and fudge made from goat’s milk
- Brushing our llamas and going on a llama trek
- Relaxing and taking in the beauty of the ranch and surrounding forests
CLASSES are offered at the Ranch as part of our hands-on experiences:

• FELTING WOOL to make hats, scarves and purses.

• CHEESEMAKING classes to learn the art of making soft Chevre and Havarti cheese.
The Ranch of Fossil Creek also believes in giving back to the community and hosts the Annual Farm Dinner to raise money for the local fire reduction organization.

Products may be purchased at the onsite Creamery Store or ordered online, FossilCreekCreamery.com. These same products are also for sale at local farmers markets and in Flagstaff and the Phoenix metro area.

- Cheeses
- Fudge
- Goat Milk Lotions & Soaps
LLAMA HIKES are offered at the Ranch. Located only about one mile from the Fossil Creek trailhead, it leads to one of the three natural travertine springs in Arizona.

The Indian ruins in the area leave us evidence of the remarkable history of the Native Americans who once lived here. It’s a perfect balance of physical exercise, relaxation and spiritual renewal.
Thank you!
